

HAZEL GREEN HERALD.

SPENCER COOPER, Owner and Editor.

"Of a Noisy World, With News From All Nations Lying in His Back."

$1.00 A YEAR, Always in Advance.

EIGHTH YEAR.

HAZEL GREEN, WOLFE COUNTY, KY., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1892.

NUMBER 32.

The Greatest Effort — OF — OUR LIVES! NEVER EQUALLED — IN THE — History of Lexington! — + — Louis & Gus Straus' DISPLAY SPRING CLOTHING

Every Department Overflowing to its utmost capacity. This is not a catch penny sale of any kind, but good honest values and qualities at fair prices. During the coming week we will display full lines of Men's and Boys' Clothing—representing the leading and best manufacturers in the United States and Europe. We will follow the representation of thirty years' standing in Lexington. We have never failed to keep our promises heretofore:

That we will sell you the best Men's Suit at $5.
That we will sell you the best Men's Suit at $10.
That we will sell you the best Men's Suit at $15.
That we will sell you the best Men's Suit at $20.
That we will sell you the best Men's Suit at $25.

OUR : MERCHANT : TAILORING : DEPARTMENT

Is the finest in the United States. Our Cutters and Workmen are first-class artists. We are doing the largest business we have ever done. Come and make your selections early.

L. & G. STRAUS.
LEADING CLOTHIERS and FINE TAILORS.

LEXINGTON, KENTUCKY.

JAY-EYE-SEE 2:10

MR. J. I. CASE, (Hickory Grove Farm, home of Jay-Eye-See Racine, Wis., says: "After trying every kind of splint for two years standing, from a 3 year old filly, with three applications of Quinns Ointment, it heartily recommends it to all Horsemen. It has hundreds of such testimonials." Price $1.50 per bottle. Ask your druggist for it. If he does not keep it, send us 25¢ stamp or silver, for trial box. W. B. EDDY & CO., Whitehall, N. Y.

GRAND OPENING

AT THE

English Kitchen,
No. 12, W. Short Street, Lexington, Ky.

Regular Meals 25 Cents. Meals to Order at All Hours. Breakfast from 5 A. M. to 9 A. M. Dinner from 10 A. M. to 3 P. M. Supper from 5 P. M. to 9 P. M. Oysters, Lamb Fries, Fish, Chickens and Quails a specialty. Open from 5 A. M. to 12 P. M.

CUS LUCART, Proprietor.

JOHN M. ROSE.

B. G. JONES

ROSE & JONES,
— DEALERS IN —

GENERAL MERCHANDISE,

HAZEL GREEN, KENTUCKY.

Carry a complete line of Dry Goods, Notions, Ladies' Dress Goods, Gents' Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Patent Medicines, Saddles, Harness, &c., and sell FOR CASH at prices lower than ever before seen in Hazel Green. All goods guaranteed as represented or money refunded.

JOB PRINTING NEATLY, CHEAPLY and PROMPTLY EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE. Send your order

PRIZE CAMPAIGN SONG.

The following is the campaign song which won the $500 prize offered by the New York World. The author is a Republican office holder at Washington, and refuses to allow his name to be published, for fear of getting the grand bounces. He prefers to lose the reward and retain his position. We commend the song to the Hazel Green club, and hope soon to hear them sing it:

(Air: Benny Haven's, O.)

To every teeming city, to town and village sent;

To every shop and mine and farm the thrilling message went:

"We've got our old commander back, he'll lead us once again!"

Be up and ready for the fray, and quit you there like men."

And quit you there like men, and quit you there like men:

Be up and ready for the fray, and quit you there like men.

He stands for all that's dearest for which our father's fought;

The people's right to rule the land, for votes that can't be bought:

He stands for lower taxes, for gold and silver, too,

For equal rights and laws for all—for everything that's true;

For everything that's true, for everything that's true,

For equal rights and laws for all, for everything that's true.

He's for the civil service, and not for sham pretense;

He's for the common people, and he's full of common sense;

He's brave and level-headed, and it's his unchanging plan.

Whatever he may think is right, to say it like a man;

To say it like a man, to say it like a man,

Whatever he may think is right, to say it like a man.

Our party knows no sections—North, South, or East or West;

The blousy shirts and bayonet we heartily detest;

We're dead against the Force bill, but we're for the church and school,

And everywhere and all the time we advocate home rule;

We advocate home rule, we advocate home rule;

And everywhere and all the time we advocate home rule.

We do not wish to regulate our neighbor's hours or drinks,

Nor do we want to interfere with what our thinks;

The Constitution and the laws decide our constiution,

And we're always good and ready to turn the rascals out;

To turn the rascals out, to turn the rascals out,

And we're always good and ready to turn the rascals out.

Then raise for Grover Cleveland a mighty deafening cheer!

We'll land him in the White House safe before another year.

No Pinkerton detective there to run our shops and mills;

No billion-dollar Congresses with him to veto bills;

With him to veto bills, with him to veto bills,

No billion-dollar Congresses with him to veto bills.

Then up a' d at them, Democrats! Charge home their wave'ning ranks!

They break, they fly, the day is ours, they're routed front and flanks;

Monopoly is on the run, protection don't protect,

But think of sixty-six and swear election shall elect;

Election shall elect, election shall elect,

But think of seventy-six and swear election shall elect.

Then when our sturdy captain comes to his own again,

He'll need a very different chair from that of little Ben;

We'll hant him up the very one in which Old Hickory sat,

And he'll fit it like a statesman, for he is a Democrat;

For he is a Democrat, for he is a Democrat,

And he'll fit it like a statesman, for he is a Democrat.

Very Encouraging Reports.

Reports from all over the district are very encouraging, and point unmistakably to the election of Judge Lide by a largely increased Democratic majority.

He is making a telling campaign, and is leaving no stone unturned that will add to the strength of the entire ticket when we vote in November." Reports are also very encouraging from the candida cy of Judge Hodges, and there is now scarcely a doubt as to election. In fact, this seems to be a Democratic year all along the line from President down to constable.—Clay City Chronicle.

NEWS NOTES.

Dr. Thomas Neil Cram, the wholesale poisoner, was found guilty in London and will hang.

Henry I. Frommeyer, a despondent Cincinnati tailor, took sixty grains of morphine and died.

J. Steinburg, of Piqua, O., was robbed of $50 and $500 worth of diamonds, in Hurst's hotel, St. Louis.

Professor Johnson was succeeded by the boy in Huber's museum' New York, and probably died.

Dennis F. Hanks died at Paris, Ills., Friday, aged ninety-three. He was the early tutor of Abraham Lincoln.

Rosenburg, S. C., has a curiosity in the shape of a three-weeks-old baby whose hand bears the imprint of a human face.

Near Wapakoneta, O., Albert Winemiller, while running a traction engine, had his right hand crushed off in the cog-wheels.

It is now stated that Blaine will not make any more speeches in the press. He refuses to say whether he will or will not.

Iowa, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Kansas, Ohio, and New York, dedicated their buildings at the world's fair grounds, Chicago, Saturday.

Six hundred troops will be sent from Dakar to reinforce the French column under Colonel Dodd, which is now operating against the Dahomeyans.

Victor A. Schillerstein, the California athlete, who can 100 yards in 9 4/5 seconds about four years ago, has abandoned athletics and is a religious crank.

At Louisville Mrs. Dora Meunlist was shot and killed by a gun trap set by her son Edward to shoot a chicken thief. She knew of his presence but had evidently forgotten it.

The body of Miss Belle Marchbank was found in the harbor at Boston. She left a note giving her name and address. She had been despondent since an attack of fever over a year ago.

In Cincinnati, on the Broadway hill, the brake on a Newport car failed to work and the car crashed into a Dayton car. Both were crowded and six people were injured but none seriously.

At Massillon, O., during the Columbian celebration an exploding cannon shattered the walls of a fire engine house and the residence of Robert L. Coleman, and incinerated the arm of John Kessler.

Katie Harbin, a fourteen-year-old girl, is conducting a phenomenal revival at Centerville, Ind. The young lady is from Louisville, and claims to have been cured of blindness by Mrs. Woodworth, the evangelist.

At Mount Sterling, O., George Turney, a boy, after living several days died from the effects of two shots inflicted by Frank Jeffries, his stepfather. It was the result of young Turney attempting to defend his mother, Mrs. Jeffries.

At Brazil, Ind., W. B. Schwartz and Albert Payne, attorneys, quarreled about business matters and then came to blows, Payne striking first. Schwartz drew a dagger and seriously, if not fatally, cut Payne about the face and head.

C. L. Bainbridge, agent for the Singer Sewing Machine company at Hot Springs, was convicted in the circuit court of embezzlement, and his punishment is fixed at one year in the penitentiary. He has heretofore stood well, but the seductive game of draw poker is the cause of his downfall.

William Reaver, a young man of Clarksville, Tenn., died Friday, it is said from the effects of a blow he received in the head several days ago, and he had a dread that he would be burned up ever since. Sitting up nights watching to prevent fire, his anxiety caused him to go into brain fever.

Senator Stanford stated to a reporter that he had reconsidered his decision to resign from the senate on account of ill health, if the next state legislature was Republican. He says his health is much improved, and he wants to remain in the senate to push his land loan bill.

Lou Sumpter, of Hot Springs, Ark., who, it was claimed, had married a courtesan in St. Louis, disclaims any acquaintance with the woman mentioned. The story of the wedding, he says, is made out of whole cloth. He thinks the whole thing is prompted and instigated by personal enemies or an effort at black-mail.

"JACK" WILSON.

Formerly of This Office, Trys the Tyson Remedy, and is Cured of the Liquor Habit.

WILLIAMSTOWN, KY., Oct 15, 1892.
To the Hon. J. G. BROWN, Vice-President and Board of Directors of Tyson's Sanitarium, Williamstown, Ky.:

GENTLEMEN:—Notwithstanding the feelings of humility and utter shame that come to me when I sit down and calmly review my past life of dissipation, as well as a sense of my inadequacy to express fully the experience I underwent when the chains of alcoholism were all around me, I cannot refrain from publicly heralding to the world that at last I am free from the bonds, having severed the fetters that rendered me almost a helpless wreck, and the insatiable desire I once possessed for alcoholic stimulants a thing of the past. Through the earnest solicitation of numerous friends who were untiring in their persuasions, I consented to try your treatment, as it seemed cowardly as well as ungrateful to refuse. Accordingly, on Sept. 13, I commenced the treatment. When I entered your Sanitarium, I must confess I did so with some apprehensions, though from what standpoint I scarcely know myself, for I was and am fully acquainted with the high standing of all the gentlemen who are interested in the institution. At the time I commenced your treatment, as you are all aware, my whole nervous system was so shattered that I could, only with difficulty, follow my vocation—that of a printer. I suffered almost nightly from palpitation of the heart, and my sleep (if sleep it could be called) was attended with some of the most beautiful, but oftener with the most ludicrous, scenes and sounds possible for the imagination of man to conjecture. The "circus programme" as I had learned to refer to these strange things (only within myself) varied according to the amount of whisky and beer I had consumed before retiring, which was just as likely to be on some one's door step as at my boarding place. Sleep did not refresh me. My appetite was irregular and often artificial—in fact, I felt and was a wreck upon the borders of an unknown sea, apparently without oar or rudder. But, thanks to Providence and my kind friends, I found a life boat when I entered the Tyson Sanitarium, and I can now smoothly sail by the terrible abyss, into which, at one time, I seemed doomed to fall. Only those who have been rescued from the perils of a desipated life can enter fully into my feelings of joy and gratitude, for I had almost given up to despondency, with no hope but the present moment in which I lived, or solace, except in the wine cup. I took your Tyson cure faithfully every hour, while awake, for twenty-one days, and from about the fourth day I began to lose my desire for whisky, and to-day I feel that I am thoroughly and permanently cured of the habit that so long held me its victim. Now, gentlemen, I wish to thank you through the columns of the press, individually and collectively, for bringing within my reach a cure for that which seemed destined to prove my utter ruin, assuring you that I shall ever hold in sacred remembrance a tender and grateful feeling for you all who were so kind and considerate while treating me for the worse misfortune that ever befell man. I would not omit to say that I will cheerfully communicate either in person or by letter with any one who may desire to know more of the wonderful curative properties of Tyson's remedy, which at all times can be had at the Williamstown and Paducah, Ky., Sanitariums, and would earnestly request those who are afflicted to not put it off until too late, but try the remedy at once, and I give you my assurance I believe it will prove in your case, as in mine, a complete and lasting cure.

Yours truly,

J. M. WILSON, JR.

In the Thick of the Battle.

The campaign in the Tenth district is waxing warm, and we find our standard-bearer for Congress in the thick of the battle. Reports from him are of the most encouraging nature, and to make his election assured it is only necessary that his own county give him hearty and unanimous support to which he is justly entitled and, which he has a perfect right to expect.—Winchester Sun.

Happy and content is a home with "The Rochester Lamp Co., New York.

HAZEL GREEN HERALD.

SPENCER COOPER. . . . Editor.

HAZEL GREEN, KY.:
FRIDAY, : Oct. 28, 1892.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For President:

CROVER CLEVELAND,
Of New York.

For Vice President:

ADLAI E. STEVENSON,
Of Illinois.

For Judge Court of Appeals,
JAMES H. HAZELRIGG,
Of Montgomery County.

For Congress—10th District,
JUDGE M. C. LISLE,
Of Clark County.

For Circuit Judge,
D. B. REDWINE,
Of Breathitt County.

COUNTRY TICKET.
For Circuit Clerk,
JONAS F. VANSANT.

For Sheriff,
GEORGE W. DRAKE.

For Circuit Judge.

We are authorized to announce Judge HENRY C. LILLY as a candidate for Circuit Judge in the Twenty-third Judicial district, composed of the counties of Estill, Lee, Wolfe, Breathitt and Magoffin.

For Appellate Judge.

We are authorized to announce Judge W. H. HOLT as a candidate for re-election as Judge of the Court of Appeals at the November election, 1892.

For Commonwealth's Attorney.

We are authorized to announce B. MARCUS, Esq., of Breathitt county, as a candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney in the district composed of Breathitt, Estill, Lee, Magoffin and Wolfe counties.

For Circuit Clerk.

We are authorized to announce H. M. COX as a candidate for Circuit Clerk of Morgan county. Election Nov. 8, 1892.

WHEN Judge Lilly assumed the robes of office Breathitt had 268 Commonwealth cases on the docket, but now has 492, a gain of 224, notwithstanding that Special Judge Redwine wiped out 600 cases; Wolfe had 84 cases, and now there are 337, a gain of 253; Estill had 131, end now has 231, a gain of 100. Thus we find that in three counties 577 Commonwealth cases have accumulated, and we must bear in mind that Judge Redwine disposed of 600 other cases or there would now be standing against Judge Lilly's administration of justice, a total of 1,177 cases. These are frightful figures to contemplate, but facts and figures prove them. The docket here made up demonstrates that he is too slow for the accumulating cases. But what of cases he has tried? Let us look a little further into his official record and see. Within a year he has had three felony cases from Breathitt reversed, and a like number from this county. From the other counties of the district we have no data at hand, but it is reasonable to suppose that in some of those counties he had at least one or two more cases reversed, and it is safe to say that in them also the cases have steadily accumulated against him. In view of this astounding state of affairs we can not see how any man—his politics Democratic or Republican—can support Mr. Lilly for a second term. On the other hand, Mr. Redwine has demonstrated both ability and energy in disposing of cases on the docket, and we fail to see how any man can refuse to vote for him. Clearly he is in every respect the man for the place, and our faith in the intelligence of the voters of this district prompts us to predict that Mr. Redwine will be the next Judge of this district. Let Democrats and all other good citizens see that we shall be. Rab for Redwine!

THE Courier-Journal of Monday contained the official ballot (for educational purposes only) and full instructions to voters. While it will be impossible for us to publish the ballot, we can and will reproduce the "instructions" to voters, which we commend to the careful consideration of all our readers, without regard to politics. However, the safest way is to vote the Democratic ticket straight, and this can be done by simply pressing the stencil in the blank space beneath the rooster. The ballot does the rest. See instructions in next week's issue, first page.

THE Courier-Journal of Monday contained the official ballot (for educational purposes only) and full instructions to voters. While it will be impossible for us to publish the ballot, we can and will reproduce the "instructions" to voters, which we commend to the careful consideration of all our readers, without regard to politics. However, the safest way is to vote the Democratic ticket straight, and this can be done by simply pressing the stencil in the blank space beneath the rooster. The ballot does the rest. See instructions in next week's issue, first page.

(ANNOUNCEMENT.)
GAZE ON THIS PICTURE,

CECLH.
The man for whom Hazelrigg voted for Register of the Land Office.

AND THEN ON THIS:

There's a name that's been broken,
The w<sup>o</sup>n<sup>t</sup> Judge Holt's name is broken, (at all).
And he's still a memory living
And a people unforgiving. (fall).

Who will cast their votes for Haz. Irgg this

ASHBURY.—The man for whom Holt voted for Register of the Land Office.

COUNTY CLERK'S CERTIFICATE.

STATE OF KENTUCKY. . . . Set.

J. G. A. WHITNEY, Clerk of the Montgomery County Court, certify that W. H. HOLT, now a Judge of the Court of Appeals of Kentucky, on August 6, 1883, in Mt. Sterling, Ky., VOTED FOR J. W. ASHURY, A NEGRO, for Register of the Land Office, AGAINST J. G. CECHL, A WHITE MAN, which vote is recorded in the poll books on G. A. WHITNEY, Clerk.

By W. H. O'CONNELL, D. C.

Witness my hand this August 27, 1892.

REPORTS which come to us from the many counties of the mountains assure us that our next Appellate Judge will be James H. Hazelrigg, the brilliant barrister of Mt. Sterling. The "fake" that Judge Holt has been trying to play the people with does not go. The masses know the man to be a partisan Republican, notwithstanding his effort to disguise the fact before Democrats, and they are determined that a Democrat shall eat of the pie in which he's had his fingers for years. Even those who like Judge Holt as a man and a citizen reason that he has had enough and that a Democrat should now have a chance. Then, again, they say Judge Hazelrigg is every way as well equipped as Judge Holt—a fact that no man can deny—and for that reason are disposed to make the change. There is no doubt in our mind that Judge Hazelrigg will be the next Appellate Judge, and we believe it safe to say he will always be found "sitting" where he is not directly interested in the case. Let every Democrat do his duty and Haz. setrigg is safe.

ELSEWHERE in this issue of our paper we publish press opinions from all over the district, and the indications point to an overwhelming victory for Hon. Marcus C. Lisle. His opponent, Mr. Russell, does not appear to be in the race for Congress in the Tenth district, and the Republicans are showing very little enthusiasm for his election. Mr. Lisle, in the meantime, is making an active canvass, and from the Upper Sandy valley, where he was last week, the most encouraging news comes to us. He can not be at all points and visit personally each voter, nor can he speak at more places than he has already appointed. All Democrats in the district should, therefore, exert special interest in his behalf and see that all the voters are in line for Mr. Lisle. He will make us a good representative and we should see that we make him the biggest majority ever accorded any man in the district.

OUR candidate for sheriff will have no opposition, Mr. Wilson, who contemplated making the race, having withdrawn. We are glad to know that Mr. Drake will not have opposition, as we believe he deserves the place, and we think Mr. Wilson acted wisely. Our candidate for circuit clerk, Jonas Vansant, will also have a walk over.

Judge Lisle in Breathitt.

Hon. M. C. Lisle will make an active earnest member of Congress if he is exalted to that position. He is certainly a hustler and that is what it takes at Washington to accomplish anything. The man who is slow about his own affairs will be slow there. We hope that Judge Lisle will get a full vote on the 8th of November. . . . We have been inquiring as to Judge Lisle's prospects in this county and have failed to hear of a Democrat who will not vote for him. As far as we can see he will get the usual party majority in this county. — Jackson Huster.

The Berlin Vossische Zeitung confirms the reports that Great Britain, the United States and Germany are all agreed that the present situation in Samoa is insuperable, and that the convention must be amended.

LEE COUNTY.

St. Helens Sayings.

A special train bearing the chief officers of the road passed up on the 19th inst. They were joined at this point by Judge D. B. Malone, ex Judge G. W. Gourley, and S. P. Stamper, county attorney. Their object was to locate and rebuild a road that was damaged by the railroad near Telaga.

The school at this place under the supervision of Miss Josie Stamper has been suspended during the past week to have the house repaired. The patrons have been busily engaged at work and are long we will have a house that will be an ornament to our community?

Charlene, infant daughter of Dr. A. M. Arnold, who we recorded last week as improving, is again very low with flux, and not expected to live.

Mrs. Lenora Simms, of Oakdale, has been visiting relatives and friends here during the past week.

Howard Cox made our community radiate with his smiles last Sunday.

Track laying on the W. & B. railroad will commence next Tuesday.

D. B. Hobbs has returned from Louisville.

Dr. F. M. Thomas, of Ezel, is in our midst.

Oct. 23.

LORENA.

MORGAN COUNTY.

Maytown Misses.

You must think that we have gone back on Cleveland and Stevenson and THE HERALD, because we have been silent so long; but we haven't. No, sir, never! The fact is we could not write for rejoicing at so many prominent Republicans like Walter Q. Gresham, Judge Cooley, Wayne McVeigh, Gen. J. D. Cox, ex-Governor of Ohio, and many others coming over to the refreshing shade of the Democratic party. What is the country coming to? Why, to Grover Cleveland and Adlai E. Stevenson just as fast as its legs can carry it.

We may all do good while the days are going by. Henry Cox is gaining about twenty-seven a day.

E. B. May returned Friday night from Louisville, where he had been in attendance at the Grand hotel.

Misses Ora B. Cecil and Lula Hart, of Ezel, paid our town a short visit yesterday.

Mrs. R. A. Sample and daughter Rosi B. are on the sick list.

Oct. 24.

WINGLESS.

They are still deserting.

They are still deserting the sinking ship. Mr. Henry W. Bartol, of Philadelphia, President of the Bourse, and an influential member of the Union League, who has made a fortune as a manufacturer, will not contribute to the campaign fund as usual this year. He has notified the Finance Committee of the Union League Campaign Committee, declaring that the tariff and other policies of President Harrison "have not commended him to those who the best interests of the country at heart," and have determined him "to support and vote for Grover Cleveland." — Courier-Journal.

George W. Berger, of St. Louis, was found murdered in the willows on the river bank.

THE LION

IS THE BEST PAINT
MADE.

THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST.

It is not a Patent Paint but the best Paint that can be made by an experienced Practical Painter with the assistance of the latest improved and powerful machinery. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction. Will cover one-half more space than lead and oil mixed by hand. Sent, freight paid, for $1.50 per gallon. One reliable dealer wanted in each town. Send for color cards, etc., to Lion Paint and Color Works, LEXINGTON, KY.

SPENCER COOPER, Agent, Hazel Green, Ky.

J. TAYLOR DAY.

FLOYD DAY.

J. T. DAY & CO.,
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
General Merchandise,
HAZEL GREEN, KY.

Largest Stock and Lowest Prices of any house in Eastern Kentucky. Live Stock, Saw Logs, School Claims and Country Produce taken in exchange for goods or on notes and accounts,

"Seeing is Believing."

And a good lamp

must be simple; when it is not simple it is not good. Simple, Beautiful, Good—these words mean much, but to see "The Rochester" will impress the truth more forcibly. All metal, tough and seamless, and made in three pieces only, it is absolutely safe and unbreakable. Like Aladdin's of old, it is indeed a "wonderful lamp," for its marvelous light is purer and brighter than gas light, softer than electric light and more cheerful than either.

Look for this lamp. The Rochester. If the lamp does not fit the gas pipe, we will send you a lamp safely by express—our choice of over 2,000 varieties from the largest lamp store in the world.

ROCHESTER LAMP CO., 42 Park Place, New York City.

*** "The Rochester."

Furniture, Carpets and Rugs!

THE TOPICS OF THE DAY! Men are talking about who shall be the next President, Tariff Reform, &c., but the ladies are talking of the Fine Furniture and how cheap they can buy it from

Geo. W. Robinson, - - Campton, Ky.

I have just added my stock of General Merchandise the largest and most complete line of Furniture ever brought to this country, and the most moderate prices as low as can be had at Winchester or Lexington. Some rooms and a general get prices before buying elsewhere.

Truly yours, GEO. W. ROBINSON.

GREEN, HUFFAKER & CO.,
WHOLESALE BOOTS AND SHOES,
LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY.

HAZEL GREEN, KY., May 10, 1892.

To the Trade of Eastern Kentucky, Contiguous to Hazel Green: We have this day completed arrangements with the above named firm and will handle their goods in large quantities. We especially invite an inspection by the merchants, as we are prepared to duplicate any and all prices quoted in Louisville, Cincinnati or Knoxville. Merchants can buy these goods almost at their doors and save large freight bills. We are prepared at any and all times to furnish these goods in any and every quality, size and price. All we ask is a trial. Respectfully, &c.,

J. T. DAY & CO.,
Represented by ED. GREEN.

Hazel Green, Ky.

State College of Kentucky

OPENS SEPTEMBER 14, 1892.

Twenty-seven Professors and Instructors. High Courses, as follows: Agriculture, Scientific, Biological, Civil, Engineering, Mechanical, Engineering, Veterinary, Classical, Normal School. County apprentices received free of tuition. Board in dormitories $2.00 per week; in private families $3.50 to $4.00. For catalogues apply to

JAS. K. PATTERSON, Ph. D., Lexington, Ky.

FEDER, : SILBERBERG, & : CO.

113 & 115 W. Third Street. - CINCINNATI, O.

WHOLESALE CLOTHING MANUFACTURERS.

Represented by M. F. BRINKLEY.

FIRST-CLASS : JOB : PRINTING

At this office at second class rates. Give us a call when you want printing and save money. REFEREE—Any and everybody we have done work for in the past

Hazel Green Herald.

SPENCER COOPER, Publisher.

HAZEL GREEN. I : : KY.

COMFORTED.

I took her home in mine, and said:
"I pray thee, child, be comforted.
For this is but the common lot.
And there will come to thee a day,
It may be near, or far away,
When all thy sorrows will be dispay.
Will be remembered not."

Yet still she wept, while I sought
With words from holy Scripture
Her wounded spirit to console.
To the Lord's I went to call,
And here I have now, my child;
By hope and confidence beguiled,
This flood of grief control."

I quoted all the Psalms I knew,
Repeating parts of a few.

I told her what submission teach;
But realized that all I said,
And all the passages I read,
Never once touched or comforted
The child I loved so well.

What should I do? In what sweet way
Could I my sympathy convey?

To one so overcome with grief!
My prayers but little had availed,
She had no comfort, no relief,
And all my best endeavor failed.

To give the least relief.

Powers to mitigate such woe
In meek despair I rose to go.

And, turning, saw her tears stained face.

She had no comfort, no relief,

And all my best endeavor failed.

To give the least relief.

I had no thought of pray or peal,
Nor had I any desire to turn to calm;

Not a single word I said.

But round her waist my arms I threw,

And gave her kiss a few,

And, at my pray a sigh I knew.

That she was comforted.

—Josephine Pollard, in S. S. Times.

MY MONEY.

How I Disposed of It and All My Troubles.

I was by several years the youngest of the six children in my father's family. The others left home while I remained to care for our parents in their old age. They both died within a few months of each other, and at the death of my father and the breaking up of that household, Robert urged that we be married at once, instead of waiting for him to be established in business. After the wedding we went west and began life together. He was honest and industrious, and possessed the love and confidence of the people among whom we lived.

One day, when Robert and I had passed the middle of life and were jogging along the down-hill road, still unconscious that we had started on down hill, we were both so loading pain and finished with suffering. All that winter the pain came sometimes, but not severe enough to convince him that it was serious.

One morning in March he came in looking ill. He would "rest a little before breakfast." In five minutes breakfast was on the table and Janie called him. He did not answer. His hat had fallen off and he had fallen upon his breast. When we looked into his face I felt that life had gone and that I stood alone in the world.

The shock was a terrible one to my nervous system, and it was weeks before I rallied so as to be able to look after my affairs. We were counted by the rural people of our neighborhood, as rich people. We had not thought of others very much, but we had gained upon his breast. When we looked into his face I felt that life had gone and that I stood alone in the world.

The shock was a terrible one to my nervous system, and it was weeks before I rallied so as to be able to look after my affairs.

We were counted by the rural people of our neighborhood, as rich people.

We had not thought of others very much, but we had gained upon his breast.

When we looked into his face I felt that life had gone and that I stood alone in the world.

But my husband was not here to say that I was too ill to say anything.

But I was too ill to say anything.

Both ordered their debts sent to the house and took possession of the two best rooms in the house.

My faithful Janie worked hard and tried to save my trouble, but one night she came to my room with tears in her eyes. "I guess I'll have to leave you, Mrs. Reed."

I was roused into energy by this.

"I'm very sorry, Mrs. Reed, but I can't stand the work."

"But, Janie, you have always done the work and had plenty of time to spare. Now, do you want to go when I am left all alone?"

"That's it, Mrs. Reed. I'd be glad to stay with you if you was alone, but the two gentlemen in the house order me about so and make me do so much work that it takes every minute to get through the work. Mr. Robert says I am to have soap every day and Mr. Frank says 'a man as rich as Uncle Reed should have more, and then one kind of meat at dinner,' and they've sent in so much victuals that it's just kept me hopping to cook it and then keep it from spoiling. The cellar is full now and there's no room to spoil before they can be half eat up."

"Well, and this is what has been going on while I have been staying in my room trying to realize what has happened. Evidently these worthy nephews have a full and realizing sense of what has happened."

As I sat in the moonlight that night with my window raised to get the coolness of my heated forehead I heard voices from my porch below.

"I think Noah's ark has about served its time as a carriage and can be kept now as a curiosity. The new carriage will be done next Wednesday. The idea of as rich a man as Uncle Robert driving around in that old rambuckle!"

My dear old comfort, the easy carriage which could carry my poor, sensitive body, I had been so fond of as a curiosity!" I began to realize that I had a will. While I had been so tenderly cared for first by my father and then by my husband, it had been allowed to slumber. Now I could feel it asserting itself and it boded so good for the managers below stairs. Still I could not bring myself to turn them out of doors and thus "make talk" in the neighborhood. Instead, I would go myself and close the house, taking Janie with me.

It was all arranged with her very quietly that night when she came up to bed. At breakfast next morning I announced my intention of going east to the summer. Both of my nephews encouraged the plan.

"You need rest and change, Aunt Malviny," Frank said, "and we can look after everything here."

"Janie is going with me and I shall shut up the house. Old Charlie will go to the pasture and stay until I return. I will put the key in the hands of Janie's mother to look after the house and, therefore, shall need not anyone here."

"Janie, Aunt Malviny, we have been looking over the place and thought it best to have some changes made in the buildings. The men will be here Monday to begin work. We may not be able to get them again so cheaply."

"I shall have no changes whatever in the place at present and perhaps never. If you have engaged men to come, you had better see them at once and tell them they will not be needed here."

Robert made one more effort. "The improvement on the house can wait, but the carriage house must be built at once to make shelter for the new carriage."

"The barn has always sheltered my carriage and can still do so. AS I have no new carriage, I shall need not to it for it."

"We ordered the carriage for you because we did not well enough to hook it after you, and it will be here next week."

"If you have ordered a carriage, you certainly will have to pay for it."

One more effort to keep their foot.

"You should have some man here to look after your interests and keep your business straight."

"I have a good man, Mr. Johnson; he will keep everything straight."

"I am afraid, Aunt Malviny, if you trust your business to these lawyers, you might not have much left pretty soon."

"Perhaps not. At any rate I will try."

Falteringly I had begun, but I felt my courage increase with every fresh attack, and when we arose from the breakfast-table, I said, "I will do what I can to help you, and I will close the house."

During the ensuing three days the young men spent the greater part of the time in their rooms, smoking and lounging. Through their open windows I occasionally heard snatches of conversation of which I give a few extracts:

"Wonder what the old hump-back expects to do with her money, any way."

"Gist married again, most likely. She's just the kind to be looking for a man again in less than six months."

"One thing, I shall charge a good, round price for my services during the month I've spent here."

They took their departure without any demonstrations of affection in their good-bye. It hurt me exceedingly to have to take them. I did not feel that I would close the house.

These young men were my husband's kindred. But there was no other way and I knew Robert would approve. Janie was a comfort and a help to me in the long journey which I would hardly have dared in my weak state to make alone. She was very happy, too, to be able to visit her grandmother whom she had never seen and who had been a score of miles from my own relatives.

"Won't grandma be surprised to see me?" She sent me a doll last Christmas and writes about little Jamie as though I was only ten years old instead of eighteen!"

I was met at the station by my nephew George, who gave me such a welcome that my heart was full. My only place of refuge was Janie's humble home, which was a little outside the track of the fire. My farm was swept clear of everything, walls, gates, crops, etc.

The little money which I had loaned was to the farmers in the vicinity, who had lost all their land. I canceled the notes and delivered them to the makers. This much I could do. My land when sold would bring me enough to enter old ladies' home, leaving a small surplus with which to furnish necessary clothing.

but tenderly cared for by her youngest daughter and her husband. Besides this there were three nephews with their families living in this New England city. All were employed in the business, but in the shop was there, which constituted by far the greater part of the business. Their pay enabled them to live very comfortably, but not to "get ahead any."

They all, therefore, looked upon me with the awe and respect which human nature is apt to have for that which it has not itself yet attained. They seemed to regard me as little less than a Vanderbilt or a Jay Gould, and much at trying to realize that impression I found it impossible.

Here is a sample remark made to one of the neighbors whom I had met: "Aunt Malviny is rich. I shouldn't much wonder if she was worth half a million. John was out to their house five or six years ago and says they had farms and cattle and money at interest, and a chick not a child in the world neither."

"Pretty good for you folks," was the neighbor's answer. "Better not disgrace her while she's here."

At first I could not help being amused by this exaggerated idea, but when I found it impossible to dispel them, and moreover that it was a barrier between me and them which forbade sympathy, I really grieved over it. They were kind and polite and very respectable, but I longed for their love and fidelity which I knew I had not secured.

I went one day to see Jane and almost envied the humble position she held when I saw how completely she had entered into the family circle and been made one of them, sharing all their griefs and helping them in their smallest economies.

The days of June gave place to July and August, with little of the pleasure for which these months are noted. In September Janie and I were to go home.

Before leaving I wanted to make a few gifts—something that should be a reminder of their western auntie, and also in such a shape that they should not be the poorer for the entertainment they had given me.

George's wife had one black dress—her best one—but it had been made over so many times that it was not puzzles who should be given the gift.

A black cashmere of best quality with linings and trimmings and a greenback to pay the dressmaker. Simple gifts for the other members of the family made a good sized parcel which I opened and presented with a happy heart. They all thanked me politely but there was a constraint in their manner which showed me very quickly that I had made a mistake.

"I shall have no changes whatever in the place at present and perhaps never. If you have engaged men to come, you had better see them at once and tell them they will not be needed here."

"I did want a black silk dress," sobbed Maria. "And I thought when she was so rich she would surely get it for me. The girls both cried themselves to sleep because they wanted good gifts, but when they thought sure Aunt Malviny would get them some, and Janie's maiden a wet hen about that nekkie."

George, poor man, like most men, could not stand the tears, so he comforted her in this wise:

"Never mind, Maria, Aunt Malviny don't look as though she could stand it long. You and the girls can have your silk dress and your watch, bimby."

"George, your words had their effect. Maria, I tried to get to sleep when she was soon discussing the plan for an enlargement of her house which was to be furnished with a Brussels carpet and a piano.

They also had their effect upon the unwilling listener in the next room whose life seemed opening out into longer vistas than ever before.

The gifts to the other families were of a similar character to those given by Maria, but not so well made. The need of a good gift had been met by the imagination of the gift-giver, and the explanation that "All I can do is to make the best I can."

During the talk she was soon discussing the plan for an enlargement of her house which was to be furnished with a Brussels carpet and a piano.

They also had their effect upon the unwilling listener in the next room whose life seemed opening out into longer vistas than ever before.

The gifts to the other families were of a similar character to those given by Maria, but not so well made. The need of a good gift had been met by the imagination of the gift-giver, and the explanation that "All I can do is to make the best I can."

"I am very sorry, Mrs. Reed, but I can't stand the work."

"But, Janie, you have always done the work and had plenty of time to spare. Now, do you want to go when I am left all alone?"

"That's it, Mrs. Reed. I'd be glad to stay with you if you was alone, but the two gentlemen in the house order me about so and make me do so much work that it takes every minute to get through the work. Mr. Robert says I am to have soap every day and Mr. Frank says 'a man as rich as Uncle Reed should have more, and then one kind of meat at dinner,' and they've sent in so much victuals that it's just kept me hopping to cook it and then keep it from spoiling. The cellar is full now and there's no room to spoil before they can be half eat up."

"Well, and this is what has been going on while I have been staying in my room trying to realize what has happened. Evidently these worthy nephews have a full and realizing sense of what has happened."

As I sat in the moonlight that night with my window raised to get the coolness of my heated forehead I heard voices from my porch below.

"A horrible smell that came at the library window made the visitor snuff. "Goodness me!" exclaimed her hostess, disgustedly. "There is Susan burning shoes again!"

"Burning shoes? What does she do that for?"

"She does it for luck, she says, and I have tried in vain to break her of the habit. All of the superstition of her ancestors she seems to have faith in. She used to burn old shoes, brings good fortune, and so I am afflicted with this kind of nuisance about once a week."

"How very funny!"

"You may well say so. I had a most absurd conversation with Susan yesterday on the subject of hoodoo. She told me that on one occasion not long ago she was taken quite sick, and the doctor said it was 'haint' sickness' which she called in told her that she was bewitched by a certain woman in the neighborhood. This woman, he declared, had succeeded in getting hold of a part of Susan's spirit and had put it in a bottle, which was thrown into the fire. The only thing to do under the circumstances was to procure some of the ashes from the fire, which were to be found in a trap in the woods. So Susan did as she was bid, got the ashes by stealth, gave them to the wise man and paid him to remove the spell from her and put it on the enemy. He did so, and as Susan told me, the person who bewitched her hadn't had a well day since."

"Ridiculous!"

"Poor Susan had to pay the wise man twenty dollars for removing that hoodoo and she never feels any confidence in him again. I have heard of a woman who was bewitched by a certain woman in the neighborhood. This woman, he declared, had succeeded in getting hold of a part of Susan's spirit and had put it in a bottle, which was thrown into the fire. The only thing to do under the circumstances was to procure some of the ashes from the fire, which were to be found in a trap in the woods. So Susan did as she was bid, got the ashes by stealth, gave them to the wise man and paid him to remove the spell from her and put it on the enemy. He did so, and as Susan told me, the person who bewitched her hadn't had a well day since."

"Poor Susan had to pay the wise man twenty dollars for removing that hoodoo and she never feels any confidence in him again. I have heard of a woman who was bewitched by a certain woman in the neighborhood. This woman, he declared, had succeeded in getting hold of a part of Susan's spirit and had put it in a bottle, which was thrown into the fire. The only thing to do under the circumstances was to procure some of the ashes from the fire, which were to be found in a trap in the woods. So Susan did as she was bid, got the ashes by stealth, gave them to the wise man and paid him to remove the spell from her and put it on the enemy. He did so, and as Susan told me, the person who bewitched her hadn't had a well day since."

"Poor Susan had to pay the wise man twenty dollars for removing that hoodoo and she never feels any confidence in him again. I have heard of a woman who was bewitched by a certain woman in the neighborhood. This woman, he declared, had succeeded in getting hold of a part of Susan's spirit and had put it in a bottle, which was thrown into the fire. The only thing to do under the circumstances was to procure some of the ashes from the fire, which were to be found in a trap in the woods. So Susan did as she was bid, got the ashes by stealth, gave them to the wise man and paid him to remove the spell from her and put it on the enemy. He did so, and as Susan told me, the person who bewitched her hadn't had a well day since."

"Poor Susan had to pay the wise man twenty dollars for removing that hoodoo and she never feels any confidence in him again. I have heard of a woman who was bewitched by a certain woman in the neighborhood. This woman, he declared, had succeeded in getting hold of a part of Susan's spirit and had put it in a bottle, which was thrown into the fire. The only thing to do under the circumstances was to procure some of the ashes from the fire, which were to be found in a trap in the woods. So Susan did as she was bid, got the ashes by stealth, gave them to the wise man and paid him to remove the spell from her and put it on the enemy. He did so, and as Susan told me, the person who bewitched her hadn't had a well day since."

"Poor Susan had to pay the wise man twenty dollars for removing that hoodoo and she never feels any confidence in him again. I have heard of a woman who was bewitched by a certain woman in the neighborhood. This woman, he declared, had succeeded in getting hold of a part of Susan's spirit and had put it in a bottle, which was thrown into the fire. The only thing to do under the circumstances was to procure some of the ashes from the fire, which were to be found in a trap in the woods. So Susan did as she was bid, got the ashes by stealth, gave them to the wise man and paid him to remove the spell from her and put it on the enemy. He did so, and as Susan told me, the person who bewitched her hadn't had a well day since."

"Poor Susan had to pay the wise man twenty dollars for removing that hoodoo and she never feels any confidence in him again. I have heard of a woman who was bewitched by a certain woman in the neighborhood. This woman, he declared, had succeeded in getting hold of a part of Susan's spirit and had put it in a bottle, which was thrown into the fire. The only thing to do under the circumstances was to procure some of the ashes from the fire, which were to be found in a trap in the woods. So Susan did as she was bid, got the ashes by stealth, gave them to the wise man and paid him to remove the spell from her and put it on the enemy. He did so, and as Susan told me, the person who bewitched her hadn't had a well day since."

"Poor Susan had to pay the wise man twenty dollars for removing that hoodoo and she never feels any confidence in him again. I have heard of a woman who was bewitched by a certain woman in the neighborhood. This woman, he declared, had succeeded in getting hold of a part of Susan's spirit and had put it in a bottle, which was thrown into the fire. The only thing to do under the circumstances was to procure some of the ashes from the fire, which were to be found in a trap in the woods. So Susan did as she was bid, got the ashes by stealth, gave them to the wise man and paid him to remove the spell from her and put it on the enemy. He did so, and as Susan told me, the person who bewitched her hadn't had a well day since."

"Poor Susan had to pay the wise man twenty dollars for removing that hoodoo and she never feels any confidence in him again. I have heard of a woman who was bewitched by a certain woman in the neighborhood. This woman, he declared, had succeeded in getting hold of a part of Susan's spirit and had put it in a bottle, which was thrown into the fire. The only thing to do under the circumstances was to procure some of the ashes from the fire, which were to be found in a trap in the woods. So Susan did as she was bid, got the ashes by stealth, gave them to the wise man and paid him to remove the spell from her and put it on the enemy. He did so, and as Susan told me, the person who bewitched her hadn't had a well day since."

"Poor Susan had to pay the wise man twenty dollars for removing that hoodoo and she never feels any confidence in him again. I have heard of a woman who was bewitched by a certain woman in the neighborhood. This woman, he declared, had succeeded in getting hold of a part of Susan's spirit and had put it in a bottle, which was thrown into the fire. The only thing to do under the circumstances was to procure some of the ashes from the fire, which were to be found in a trap in the woods. So Susan did as she was bid, got the ashes by stealth, gave them to the wise man and paid him to remove the spell from her and put it on the enemy. He did so, and as Susan told me, the person who bewitched her hadn't had a well day since."

"Poor Susan had to pay the wise man twenty dollars for removing that hoodoo and she never feels any confidence in him again. I have heard of a woman who was bewitched by a certain woman in the neighborhood. This woman, he declared, had succeeded in getting hold of a part of Susan's spirit and had put it in a bottle, which was thrown into the fire. The only thing to do under the circumstances was to procure some of the ashes from the fire, which were to be found in a trap in the woods. So Susan did as she was bid, got the ashes by stealth, gave them to the wise man and paid him to remove the spell from her and put it on the enemy. He did so, and as Susan told me, the person who bewitched her hadn't had a well day since."

"Poor Susan had to pay the wise man twenty dollars for removing that hoodoo and she never feels any confidence in him again. I have heard of a woman who was bewitched by a certain woman in the neighborhood. This woman, he declared, had succeeded in getting hold of a part of Susan's spirit and had put it in a bottle, which was thrown into the fire. The only thing to do under the circumstances was to procure some of the ashes from the fire, which were to be found in a trap in the woods. So Susan did as she was bid, got the ashes by stealth, gave them to the wise man and paid him to remove the spell from her and put it on the enemy. He did so, and as Susan told me, the person who bewitched her hadn't had a well day since."

"Poor Susan had to pay the wise man twenty dollars for removing that hoodoo and she never feels any confidence in him again. I have heard of a woman who was bewitched by a certain woman in the neighborhood. This woman, he declared, had succeeded in getting hold of a part of Susan's spirit and had put it in a bottle, which was thrown into the fire. The only thing to do under the circumstances was to procure some of the ashes from the fire, which were to be found in a trap in the woods. So Susan did as she was bid, got the ashes by stealth, gave them to the wise man and paid him to remove the spell from her and put it on the enemy. He did so, and as Susan told me, the person who bewitched her hadn't had a well day since."

"Poor Susan had to pay the wise man twenty dollars for removing that hoodoo and she never feels any confidence in him again. I have heard of a woman who was bewitched by a certain woman in the neighborhood. This woman, he declared, had succeeded in getting hold of a part of Susan's spirit and had put it in a bottle, which was thrown into the fire. The only thing to do under the circumstances was to procure some of the ashes from the fire, which were to be found in a trap in the woods. So Susan did as she was bid, got the ashes by stealth, gave them to the wise man and paid him to remove the spell from her and put it on the enemy. He did so, and as Susan told me, the person who bewitched her hadn't had a well day since."

"Poor Susan had to pay the wise man twenty dollars for removing that hoodoo and she never feels any confidence in him again. I have heard of a woman who was bewitched by a certain woman in the neighborhood. This woman, he declared, had succeeded in getting hold of a part of Susan's spirit and had put it in a bottle, which was thrown into the fire. The only thing to do under the circumstances was to procure some of the ashes from the fire, which were to be found in a trap in the woods. So Susan did as she was bid, got the ashes by stealth, gave them to the wise man and paid him to remove the spell from her and put it on the enemy. He did so, and as Susan told me, the person who bewitched her hadn't had a well day since."

"Poor Susan had to pay the wise man twenty dollars for removing that hoodoo and she never feels any confidence in him again. I have heard of a woman who was bewitched by a certain woman in the neighborhood. This woman, he declared, had succeeded in getting hold of a part of Susan's spirit and had put it in a bottle, which was thrown into the fire. The only thing to do under the circumstances was to procure some of the ashes from the fire, which were to be found in a trap in the woods. So Susan did as she was bid, got the ashes by stealth, gave them to the wise man and paid him to remove the spell from her and put it on the enemy. He did so, and as Susan told me, the person who bewitched her hadn't had a well day since."

"Poor Susan had to pay the wise man twenty dollars for removing that hoodoo and she never feels any confidence in him again. I have heard of a woman who was bewitched by a certain woman in the neighborhood. This woman, he declared, had succeeded in getting hold of a part of Susan's spirit and had put it in a bottle, which was thrown into the fire. The only thing to do under the circumstances was to procure some of the ashes from the fire, which were to be found in a trap in the woods. So Susan did as she was bid, got the ashes by stealth, gave them to the wise man and paid him to remove the spell from her and put it on the enemy. He did so, and as Susan told me, the person who bewitched her hadn't had a well day since."

"Poor Susan had to pay the wise man twenty dollars for removing that hoodoo and she never feels any confidence in him again. I have heard of a woman who was bewitched by a certain woman in the neighborhood. This woman, he declared, had succeeded in getting hold of a part of Susan's spirit and had put it in a bottle, which was thrown into the fire. The only thing to do under the circumstances was to procure some of the ashes from the fire, which were to be found in a trap in the woods. So Susan did as she was bid, got the ashes by stealth, gave them to the wise man and paid him to remove the spell from her and put it on the enemy. He did so, and as Susan told me, the person who bewitched her hadn't had a well day since."

"Poor Susan had to pay the wise man twenty dollars for removing that hoodoo and she never feels any confidence in him again. I have heard of a woman who was bewitched by a certain woman in the neighborhood. This woman, he declared, had succeeded in getting hold of a part of Susan's spirit and had put it in a bottle, which was thrown into the fire. The only thing to do under the circumstances was to procure some of the ashes from the fire, which were to be found in a trap in the woods. So Susan did as she was bid, got the ashes by stealth, gave them to the wise man and paid him to remove the spell from her and put it on the enemy. He did so, and as Susan told me, the person who bewitched her hadn't had a well day since."

"Poor Susan had to pay the wise man twenty dollars for removing that hoodoo and she never feels any confidence in him again. I have heard of a woman who was bewitched by a certain woman in the neighborhood. This woman, he declared, had succeeded in getting hold of a part of Susan's spirit and had put it in a bottle, which was thrown into the fire. The only thing to do under the circumstances was to procure some of the ashes from the fire, which were to be found in a trap in the woods. So Susan did as she was bid, got the ashes by stealth, gave them to the wise man and paid him to remove the spell from her and put it on the enemy. He did so, and as Susan told me, the person who bewitched her hadn't had a well day since."

"Poor Susan had to pay the wise man twenty dollars for removing that hoodoo and she never feels any confidence in him again. I have heard of a woman who was bewitched by a certain woman in the neighborhood. This woman, he declared, had succeeded in getting hold of a part of Susan's spirit and had put it in a bottle, which was thrown into the fire. The only thing to do under the circumstances was to procure some of the ashes from the fire, which were to be found in a trap in the woods. So Susan did as she was bid, got the ashes by stealth, gave them to the wise man and paid him to remove the spell from her and put it on the enemy. He did so, and as Susan told me, the person who bewitched her hadn't had a well day since."

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—A number of autograph-manuscripts written by Luther and Melancthon have been found in the library of a small town in Saxony.

—The duke of Argyll is now known as such in the British house of lords. Heretofore this title was only that of a son of Campbell, the "Duke of Argyll," of the United Kingdom. Queen Victoria has now made the dukedom of Argyll a dukedom of the United Kingdom.

—Gen. John J. Perry of Portland, Me., is one of the few surviving congressmen of the anti-war period. He served two terms at Washington prior to 1861. He is well-informed, gifted with an excellent memory, and enjoys fine health, and has a wonderful store of reminiscences of the statesmen of that day and generation.

—Contes' Kings, author of "The Brain of the Boar," which he wrote after trying to get sleep in the dormitory of the Waynesville (O.) academy, where he was a student at the time lives at Xenia, O. He studied law with the famous Tom Corwin and practiced a little. Of late years he has lived in easy retirement.

—The Philadelphia Ledger announces the death of John L. Henderson, who had been employed on that paper as a compositor and proof-reader for fifty years. A student of law, Henderson was a man of great energy and ability.

—Paul B. Du Chaillu says that he has always loved the young people because they are the only readers of his books of travel who believe the tales of adventure told in them. He has many friendships with small boys, and insists on their calling him Paul. Mr. Du Chaillu is completing a novel of life in the wilds of Africa.

—It is said that Ross Terry Cooke, who was not able to make much money out of his literary work, is the first native-born Australian to make a fortune in this country. The first native-born Australian minister to visit London. While he was there, the Queen knighted him. He is about fifty-eight years of age and stands six feet four inches tall, and in spite of his wealth, finds his chief pleasure when at home in the use of a turning-lathe in the spacious workshop he has had built at his summer home in Sidney.

—Palmer of Illinois, Carlisle, of Kentuck, son of Palmer of Ohio; Allison, of Longmeadow, Mass.; Perkins, of New Haven, Conn.; and Felton, of California, appeared in the senate last summer dressed in the same piece of cloth. Perkins, of Kansas, wore a rather conspicuous light blue vest; of Missouri, a cream-colored costume; and of Pennsylvania, a purple vest.

—The Australian premier, Sir George Grey, has made a trip through this country, is the first native-born Australian minister to visit London. While he was there, the Queen knighted him. He is about fifty-eight years of age and stands six feet four inches tall, and in spite of his wealth, finds his chief pleasure when at home in the use of a turning-lathe in the spacious workshop he has had built at his summer home in Sidney.

—Sir George Grey, of Australia, is the first native-born Australian minister to visit London. While he was there, the Queen knighted him. He is about fifty-eight years of age and stands six feet four inches tall, and in spite of his wealth, finds his chief pleasure when at home in the use of a turning-lathe in the spacious workshop he has had built at his summer home in Sidney.

—Palmer of Illinois, Carlisle, of Kentuck, son of Palmer of Ohio; Allison, of Longmeadow, Mass.; Perkins, of New Haven, Conn.; and Felton, of California, appeared in the senate last summer dressed in the same piece of cloth. Perkins, of Kansas, wore a rather conspicuous light blue vest; of Missouri, a cream-colored costume; and of Pennsylvania, a purple vest.

HOME HINTS AND HELPS.

It is claimed that white spots on varnished furniture will disappear if a hot plate from the oven is held over them.

Cornmeal gems: One cup of sour milk, one egg, one half teaspoonful of soda, a pinch of salt, six heaping tablespoons of cornmeal, three tablespoonsfuls of flour, one tablespoonful of sugar. Bake quickly in hot irons.—Detroit Free Press.

To Remove Freckles: Grate fresh horseradish root and put it in sour milk. Use this as a wash for an hour, then set away until next day; was the face with it every night and two or three times during the day, being careful not to get it in the eyes.—N. Y. World.

Peaches La Conde: Peel and cut the peaches in two and stew them in clarified sugar syrup. Fill an oval mold with hot boiled rice; turn the form out on a dish, arrange the peaches around it and decorate with preserved cherries and small fruits from the confectioner's. Mix half a pint of the syrup with a gill of marjoram, pour it over the dish, and serve hot.—Boston Herald.

Egg Salad: Boil six eggs fifteen minutes. While they are boiling make a French dressing, and to it add one tablespoonful of tarragon vinegar, the same quantity of onion juice and a little chopped parsley. When the eggs are done cut in slices and place in a salad dish. Pour the dressing over while the eggs are still hot. Stand in a cold place two hours, then serve.—Christian Inquirer.

Tomato Soup: Take a can of tomatoes and bring them to a boil, and then strain through a coarse strainer. Add one teaspoonful of dry soda, and when the foaming ceases add a quart of milk and a tablespoonful of butter. Season the soup with salt, red pepper or curry powder, and chicken slightly with a little cracked crumbs. Boil the soup for a few moments, and it is ready for eating.—Harper's Bazaar.

HOME, SWEET HOME.

How to Make the Domine All that It Should Be.

The old Saxon word home has a far higher meaning than mere habitation or mere abiding-place. In the original Saxon "hūm," from which the English word is derived, is a place of rest as well as a domicile. Yet how few of us think of this word, much as it is talked of in its original sense. And, alas! how few succeed in making their homes places of rest, rather than mere places where the turmoil and friction of daily life are reflected.

The most perfect art of attire housekeeping is to succeed in her art to make her home an abiding-place of peace on which the demons of unrest and fleshliness never enter. In these houses where strict order prevails the friction of the kitchen-work is never felt beyond its walls.

That house which has a place high enough above the earth to make the demons of unrest and fleshliness never enter, in these houses where strict order prevails the friction of the kitchen-work is never felt beyond its walls. That house is no true home where the steam and fumes of the kitchen penetrate to the living-rooms, or where the mistress sits down to her family table with her face clouded under the petty trials and vexations of housekeeping. As her husband should throw off his business cares, so she should throw off her household cares at all the family gathering places.

Too often the dinner-table is a place where weak, indeed women reprove the petty grievances of their house-work and all the fume, fret and fever thereof. Let down your burdens for the time if you would have your home a "true home." That is gained and every home is a true home when man and mental force to do so. No other has a right to make her house an uncomfortable dwelling-place for her children. It is her duty to protect and shield them, not by the force of her command, but by the power of her love. If she would do this she must make their home the most attractive place in the world, to which they come not as slaves driven to their galleries, but as free children.

It requires continual tact and solicitude on the part of the householder to allay the fears of his household, the share of the work, and yet arrange so that no jar in the domestic machinery can affect the quiet atmosphere of the home. It requires as much executive power as to command a ship to arrange all the details of the house so that the routine flows in harmonious lines. Yet it is just this executive power that is needed in the household. It is this that the wife always seems to lack to make a capable wife or mother. Like Dickens' Domb, such a woman is picturesque only in her girlhood, and, like the weak Anne of Austria, she may well exclaim when her beauty is fled: "It is time for me to die."

It is a shame to any mother who fails to train her daughters to take a serious view of life, instead of a frivolous, shallow view; to remember that the highest qualities, whether they be married or single, is a home.

A great writer on this subject has said: "Where a true wife comes, this home is always around her. The stars may be over her head; the glowworm in the night cold grass may be the only fire at her feet. But home is yet wherever she is, and for a noble woman it stretches far around her, better than with cedar or painted with vermilion, shedding its quiet light for those who else were homeless."—N. Y. Tribune.

TRAVELERS AT ST. LOUIS.

Three Thousand Men to Parade with Military Escort.

The Illumination Attracting Great Crowds—Increasing Popularity of the "Ex."—Other Attractions.

St. Louis, Sept. 15.—The illuminations to-night embraced all the grand features of the earlier displays, and were even grander than the earlier illuminations. There were over several thousand additional globes and an immense quantity of electrical apparatus. The whole of the 75,000 gas and electric lights were alight, and the proceedings passed off without a hitch and amid great enthusiasm. Several visitors from eastern cities and from Europe were loud in their expressions of admiration, and the illuminations are far grander than anything ever seen in any other city.

After the lights were turned out there was a general rush to Expedition Building, and the magnificent structure was thronged with delighted guests. This is the ninth consecutive season of the St. Louis exposition, is far exceeding all previous efforts, both in the matter of beauty and attendance, and Gilmore with his band of one hundred drummers and the crowd encamped four times daily.

A large number of special attractions are announced for the Exposition, including a Travelers' Protective association celebration on Saturday, October 1. On the evening of that day the T.

A. will take charge of the Exposition programme. An oration will be delivered by W. C. P. Breckinridge and by the governors of Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and other states. A general invitation has been issued by the national president and directors of the T. P. A. and the largest gathering of traveling men of the west seen for years will be the result. About 500 will march with military escort, and a very elaborate programme has been prepared for the entertainment of the visitors during the day.

The Veiled Prophet will also arrive on October 1st, and will give his annual parade and ball on the following Tuesday. The route of the parade has been considerably extended and the pageant will be a grand one. The ball will be October 3 to October's annual fair will be open, and for this a large number of additional attractions are announced.

People who imagine the average passenger in the west is a simpleton will be surprised to learn that he has been disengaged fast asleep.—Yonkers Statesman.

"MAMMA," said little Johnny, "if I swallowed a thermometer would I die?"—Boston Post.

The swallow is a bird of easy flight, and why a man is flight when he has but several swallows.—Binghamton Republican.

"D. B. Brown is going to run for congress?" "That's what's the 'has he been doing a good job'?"—Atlanta Constitution.

It is never too late to mend. This is why the cobbler never has his boots done at the time promised.—Boston Transcript.

It is a test of politeness for a man to listen with interest to things he knows all about, when they are being told by a person who knows nothing about them.—Boston Bulletin.

"Do you think a man does his best work when he writes for money?" "I should say so," replied the young man. "About a month ago I wrote a letter to a paper which convinced my uncle that I needed a hundred."—Washington Star.

It is not wise to make yourself and your friends unhappy in this world because you think you are going to a better one.—Philadelphia Record.

Low Rate Harvest Excursions.

The announcement that the North Western Line, comprising over 8,000 miles of thoroughly equipped railway, has arranged tour and excursion rates for the months of August and September, will be gladly received by those who are interested in the development of the great West. Northern, as well as by those who desire to visit this wonderfully productive region at a season of the year when the demand for labor is great. The North Western has many advantages it offers to home-seekers and those in search of safe and profitable investments. August 26th and Sept. 27th, and tickets can be purchased at the very low rate of one dollar for the round trip to the town of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, or to the cities of Dakota, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Idaho and Montana. They will be strictly first class, every passenger being seated by return passage at any time within twenty-four days from date of purchase. Full information concerning the arrangements for these excursions can be obtained upon application to any coupon ticket agent, or to W. A. Thrall, G. P. T. A., Chicago & North Western Railway, Chicago.

JOHNSON says it is a great thing to be able to speak in the respect of the man who passes the plate to you every Sunday.—Eintra Gazette.

Breathes There a Man

Who can inhale malaria-air with impunity? No, not unless he is entitled to the special protection given by H. H. Stomach Bitter. Indeed, he defended. Not only is this medicine most effective in the cure of malaria, but it thoroughly relieves dyspepsia, constipation, rheumatism, biliousness, nervousness and kidney trouble.

PERSISTENCY is a virtue—some virtues are hard to acquire it in a fly.—Lowell Courier.

A Great Advantage.

Most remedies for coughs and colds contain opium in some form. This dangerous drug, both stupefying and narcotic, the patient, and the doctor, and the druggist, free from hurtful ingredients and a positive cure. Dr. Clegg, Whoooping Cough and Bronchitis, and Dr. Clegg's Patent Proprietary Druggist throughout the state. A. P. House, N. Y., manufacturer and sole proprietor.

RAFT ATTENTION: the attitude of the man who is hit with a policeman's baty.—Lowell Courier.

The strength of medicines for a government agency. To take off his hat when speaking to his superior officer through the telephone.—Journal des Bains.

It is when the young fellow in love has lost his head that the girl in the case is likely to mercifully lay her own on his shoulders and call him names.

PARENTS: It is generally agreed that the only man who succeeds in business is the one who succeeds in business by going to the wall.—Texas Statesman.

MARS has two moons, and for the sake of its supposed inhabitants it is to be hoped that the dogs don't bark there as they do here.—Philadelphia Times.

PEOPLES who imagine the average passenger in the west is a simpleton will be surprised to learn that he has been disengaged fast asleep.—Yonkers Statesman.

"MAMMA," said little Johnny, "if I swallowed a thermometer would I die?"—Boston Post.

The swallow is a bird of easy flight, and why a man is flight when he has but several swallows.—Binghamton Republican.

"D. B. Brown is going to run for congress?" "That's what's the 'has he been doing a good job'?"—Atlanta Constitution.

It is never too late to mend. This is why the cobbler never has his boots done at the time promised.—Boston Transcript.

It is a test of politeness for a man to listen with interest to things he knows all about, when they are being told by a person who knows nothing about them.—Boston Bulletin.

"Do you think a man does his best work when he writes for money?" "I should say so," replied the young man. "About a month ago I wrote a letter to a paper which convinced my uncle that I needed a hundred."—Washington Star.

It is not wise to make yourself and your friends unhappy in this world because you think you are going to a better one.—Philadelphia Record.

SYRUP of FIGS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cures the system effectively, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action, and truly medicinal in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

"I love you. Shall we consider ourselves engaged?" "Yes. From these afternoon until nine next Saturday. That's the only time I have open now."—Boston Post.

"I love you. Shall we consider ourselves engaged?" "Yes. From these afternoon until nine next Saturday. That's the only time I have open now."—Chicago News Record.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

NEW YORK, N.Y.

Have You Asthma?

Dr. R. SCHIFFMANN, St. Paul, Minn., will mail a trial package of Schiffmann's Asthma Cure free to any sufferer. Gives instant relief in worst cases, and cures where others fail. Name this paper and send address.

He who said "The world is my oyster" did not like the world in hot weather.—Texas Siftings.

CONCERNED E. D. LEOMIS, Detroit, Mich. "The effect of Hall's Catarrh Cure is wonderful." Write him about it. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Some cheap perfumes are not to be sniffed at.

For a Cough or Sore Throat the best medicine is Dr. Hall's Honey of Horehound and Tar. Price 25c. Druggists Cure in one minute.

A not in the morning is better than nothing all day.—Rau's Balsam.

Who suffers with his liver, constipation, bilious fits, poor blood or dizziness—take Beecham's Pills. Of druggists. 25 cents.

The chemist's best girl is analyzer.—Lowell Courier.

RISING SUN STOVE POLISH
NO OILS, BALSAM, BEECHAM, and Paints which stain the hands, injure the iron, and burn off. It is a safe, strong, and durable paint, Odorless, Durable, and the consumer pays for no oil base package with every purchase.

SO NOT RECEIVED.

Send to R. E. LEONARD, 100 W. 45th Street, New York.

It is a safe, strong, and durable paint, Odorless, Durable, and the consumer pays for no oil base package with every purchase.

W. BAKER & CO.'S Breakfast Cocoa which is absolutely pure and valuable.

It has more than three times the strength of Cocoa, and is more nutritious or Sugar, and is far more economical, costing but one cent a cup.

It is a safe, strong, and durable paint, Odorless, Durable, and the consumer pays for no oil base package with every purchase.

Sold by Grocers everywhere.

W. BAKER & CO., Dorchester, Mass.

1 / 2 RATE EXCURSIONS

ARKANSAS and TEXAS

August 20, September 27, October 25, 1888.

VIA THE COTTON BELT ROUTE

S. G. HATCH, Traveling Salesman.

Dr. P. A. Thrall, Pass Agent.

W. G. ADAMS, Pass Agent.

H. B. SUTTON, Pass Agent.

W. N. LADERER, Pass Agent.

W. L. DOUGLASS, Pass Agent.

JAMES PYLE, New York.

Give Ear

To the plain facts about Pearline, and then give Pearline a chance to prove them, by giving it a fair trial.

Nothing else will give the same result. It washes safely, as well as surely; it cleans carefully, as well as easily.

It is as cheap as soap and better. Anything that can be washed, can be washed best with Pearline. It lightens labor and does lightning work.

As nearly as we can figure, about eight millions of women use it. Do you? You will sooner or later.

To persons of unscrupulous persons who offer imitations of Pearline, and say, "It's just as good as" or "the same as" Pearline. IT'S NOT.

Don't Listen

W. L. DOUGLASS FOR $3 SHOE GENTLEMEN, THE BEST SHOE IN THE WORLD FOR THE MONEY.

IT IS A DUTY TO OWN A PEARLINE SHOE, AND IT IS A DUTY TO OWN A PEARLINE SHOE FOR YOUR MONEY. Economize in your wear to the best advantage. Don't pay for a shoe which represents the best value for the money. It costs thousands will testify.

EP-TAKEN NO SUBSTITUTE.

BOYS: worn by the boys everywhere. The most serviceable shoes at the lowest prices.

LADIES: hands-sewed, $2.50, $2.75, $3.

SHOES FOR MISSES are made of the best leather.

EP-TAKEN NO SUBSTITUTE. The best leather.

EP-TAKEN

The Tariff is a Tax.

The reduction of the sugar duty has reduced the price of sugar.

The increase of duty on tin plate has increased the price of tin plate.

Putting quinine on the free list reduced the price of quinine.

Increasing the tariff on woolen goods had led to the greater use of shoddy and of cotton.

The reduction in the duty on the raw materials of binding twine reduced the price of twine.

Every manufacturer in demanding protection admits that without the tariff competition would force price down.

John Quincy Adams knew the tariff was a tax, and in 1835 he explained its operations in this way: "The duty constitutes a part of the price of the whole mass of the article in the market. It is substantially paid upon the articles of domestic manufacture as well as upon that of foreign production. Upon one it is a bounty, upon the other a burden; and the repeal of the tax must operate as an equivalent reduction of the price of the article, whether foreign or domestic. We say, so long as the importation continues, the duty must be paid by the purchaser of the article."

The manufacturers today know the tariff is a tax paid by the consumer; they know their foreign customers will not pay this tax, and so they allow a large discount on articles bought for export.

Here is a sample of the way they relieve their foreign customers of the taxes they impose on their American customers:

First Avenue Hotel, Holden, London, W. C., August 15, 1892.—Dear Sir: Reverting to your inquiry for Victor bangles, with Victor cushion tires, you can procure same of the Overman Wheel Company, Cleopatra Falls, Mass., U. S. A., for $15, less 25 per cent, on account of export. Or, if you care to send me twenty pounds, I will see that your order is filled at once. Our cushion tire is not to be compared with the so-called cushions here. It is marvelously good. We make but one grade bicycle, the highest. Awaiting your commands, I am, very truly yours, A. H. OVERMAN.

Down with the Robber Tariff!—Courtier Journal.

The Best Plaster.

Dampen a piece of flannel with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bind it on over the seat of pain. It is better than any plaster. When the lungs are sore such an application on the chest and another on the back, between the shoulder blades, will often prevent pneumonia. There is nothing so good for a lame back or a pain in the side. A sore throat can nearly always be cured in one night by applying flannel bandage dampened with Pain Balm. 50 cent bottles for sale by Rose & Jones.

Misers, Read the Papers.

Sounders succeed by robbing the ignorant. Every day we hear of "green goods" and gold brick victims. The swindled are miserly people who never read the newspapers. To save a dollar these rustics lose hundreds. By not knowing the markets they sell at low prices, being easily persuaded by glib-tongued itinerants. Swindlers generally travel in pairs. A confederate goes before the buyer, who in the most incendiary manner, deplores the low prices prevailing, and predicts a further decline. After this fellow has told his tale, the dealer turns up and the farmer unloads his crop at figures far below the market. People get taken in by frauds an hundred times exposed. The man who is not up with the times will often be down in the world. When a daily newspaper abreast with the living age can be had for a penny an issue, it is astounding that anyone should do without a diary of the world's thinking and doings. Such men don't care a cent for knowledge. And yet this is the nineteenth century.—Cincinnati Post.

Saratoga Association.

Mr. Charles Wheatley, Sec'y of the Saratoga Racing Association writes, "From the experience of many years use of Quinn's Ointment, I unhesitatingly recommend it for the cure of Blood Spasms. Windpuffs, and other soft enlargements. Sold by Rose & Jones.

A New Faster Sulky.

A new style of rubber wheel sulky was used at Hartford for the first time. The wheel is 42 inches in diameter, the ends of the axle work in a cone, and by means of a socket in either side the seat can be raised or lowered to suit the height of the horse. The tire is wider and flatter than the others now in use. Chronos, a pacing stallion went an easy mile, only moving fast the last quarter in 9:30. The driver says it rides smoother than the small wheels, there is less drag, and it takes the turn a deal better. It weighs 54 pounds.

A Mild Winter After a Hot Autumn.

There are already meteorological signs of a mild winter. Snows have been seen to fly South. Swallows remained North three weeks after their regular time to leave and robins are still lingering north of the Potomac. A woodcock shot in Pennsylvania last week had only a few feathers on it, and that is a sure sign of mild weather. So much for the birds.

A coon trapped in a corn field was as poor as a crow. At this time last year the coons were as fat as pigs. The fur of woodchucks is much thinner than usual, and that is a sure sign of an open winter. Moreover, rattlesnakes are lively in the huckleberry bushes as lively as they were in midsummer. Black-snakes are as numerous as they were two months ago. Last year they took promptly to their dens on the first of September. The testimony of the animals and reptiles appears to be complimentary to that of the birds.—New York Sun.

If your children subject to croup; if so, you should never be without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is a certain cure: for croup, and has never been known to fail. If given freely as the croupy cough appears it will prevent the attack. It is the sole reliance with thousands of mothers who have croupy children, and never disappoints them. There is no danger in giving this Remedy in large and frequent doses, as it contains nothing injurious. 50 cent bottles for sale by Rose & Jones.

Oct 8

Democrats, Do Your Duty.

The election is nearly on us and there is much work for every good Democrat to do. Is your neighbor sore over the result in some primary? Reason with him and tell him that an injury to one of the candidates is an injury to the whole ticket. Is he indifferent and liable to stay at home on election day? See him and get him to come to the polls. Watch and pray is good politics. Do both and the Lord will love you and the Democrats, who are his chosen people, will rise up and call you blessed.—Winchester Democrat.

Chamberlain's Eye and Skin Ointment.

A certain cure for Chronic Sore Eyes, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Old Chronic Sores, Fever Sores, Eczema, Itch, Prairie Scratches, Sore Nipples and Piles. It is cooling and soothing. Hundreds of cases have been cured by it after all other treatment had failed. It is put up in 25 and 50 cent boxes. For sale by Rose & Jones.

Oct 8

When Gabriel Blows His Trumpet.

When the railroads are under government control, you may ride from New York to San Francisco for $6.—Farmer's and Laborer's Journal.

And when Gabriel blows his trumpet, every citizen of this world will get a free ride from earth to heaven, provided the brake don't slip and send him to the infernal regions. A cheap ride or free ride seems to be the highest ambition of some people. When the government buys up all the railroads of the country, it will require the sale of every foot of farming land in the United States to pay the debt.—Madisonville Hustler.

Alexander's army 'n w no lef. The same is true of Dr. Fenner's Golden Remedy. It is warranted to relieve toothache, headache, neuralgia, or any other pain in 2 to 8 minutes. Also bruises, wounds, wire cuts, swellings, bites, burns, summer complaints, colic (also in horses), diarrhea, dysentery and flux. If satisfaction not given money returned. For sale by Rose & Jones.

Oct 8

An Expensive Luxury.

The expensive attached to a State election in Kentucky under the Australian ballot system will be much more than is generally supposed. The total cost will not fall far short of $50,000, and may exceed that figure. In one item alone there will be less expense than under the old system, that of officers pay. Where they formerly received $8 per day, now they receive only $2. The estimated cost is $36.50 for each voting precinct and with over 1,400 in the State it is only a matter of figures to see that the cost will reach at least $51,000.

Oct 8

A Guaranteed Remedy.

Megrmine, the only permanent cure for all forms of headache and neuralgia, relieves the pain in from 15 to 20 minutes. For sale on positive guarantee at THE HERALD office, or sent postpaid by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents a box.

Oct 8

Will Spencer's Fast Horse.

The Valdene colts are showing up in Texas. Willie Spencer, who went from this county to Iowa Park, Texas, carried with him one of the stallion's first crop of colts which is now three years old, and which is out of a mare by Champ Ferguson. With forty days handling he won a race against aged horses over a slow track in 2:42, and since that time has gone much faster, but Mr. Spencer would not give the exact time, as he expects to make a "killing" with him next year.—Winchester Democrat.

Oct 8

For headaches, biliousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, the blues, scrofula, the blood and all skin eruptions Dr. Fenner's Blood and Liver Remedy and Nerve Tonic never fails. Waranted to satisfy or money refunded. Could this be afforded if the Remedy wasn't certain? For sale by Rose & Jones.

Oct 8

The Son Received.

A remarkable decision has just been rendered in a magistrate's court in Louisville, established, if it holds good, the converse of the well known principle of law that parents are liable for the debts of their children. A man named Crowley ran up a saloon bill of $22,20, and refused to pay it, alleging that he had no money. The saloonist then attached the wages of a minor son of Crowley, and the magistrate held that the son's earnings are liable for his father's debts until the young man reaches his majority. This may be law, but if so it is very bad law and the sooner it is amended the better.

Steam navigation was once looked upon with doubt. So was the power of Dr. Fenner's Cough Honey to relieve any cough in a hour, until thousands of trials demonstrated the fact. Equally good for horses. Gives energy and strength. Money refunded if satisfaction not given. For sale by Rose & Jones.

Oct 8

Lane's Medicines moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary.

Kentucky Legislature.

HOUSE.

(Not in session.)

SENATE.

(Not in session.)

Frankfort Capital.

Coughing leads to consumption. Kemp's Balsam stops the cough at once.

Oct 8

Vote the Democratic ticket straight.

Oct 8

Democrats, Do Your Duty.

Oct 8